Banned List

As of April 17th, 2025, there is no banned list. This is due to there being only one card on the list, and the errata on it removing the reasoning for the banning.[1]

History

Previously, as an experiment to curb the pervasive success of some deck types, an official banned list was created for Ashes on July 24, 2024.[2] Cards on the banned list could not be included in decks used in official organized play events, which is different from the Chained list. The only card banned was Molten Gold.

This list did not forbid any player from using the banned cards in Red Rains (PvE). Some events would also allow the banned card, usually due to deck building restrictions (ie, building using Red Rains Campaign rules).
