Namine Hymntide

Namine hails from Soaksend. She first appeared in The Song of Soaksend, and is one of the protagonists reappearing in The Flood of Moon Cove.

Namine Hymntide
Art from Song of Soaksend

History

Namine has lived several human lifetimes, and fought with other Phoenixborn during the Great Cleansing.

Conjurations

Namine's conjurations are Salamander Monk, Salamander Monk Spirit, and Squall Stallion. She is the most likely Phoenixborn to have created the Cerulean Diver.

Card appearances

- Guilt Link
- Magic Syphon
- Encore
- Shatter Pulse
- Surging Tempest
- Drowning (Flood of Moon Cove conjured alteration)
- Deep End (Flood of Moon Cove Abyss aspect)
- From the Depths (Flood of Moon Cove Abyss aspect)
- Deluge (Flood of Moon Cove Wave aspect)

Quotes:

- “This is my song.”
- “The key has changed but the song remains.”
- “Well, if you insist.”
- “We are connected, the innocent and the evil.”
- “Lift your spirits and live for another day.”
- “My steed, born from thunder.” + “They are more than just our creations.”
- “What use is godhood if I cannot save the innocent?”
- “Water hides nothing from those who wish to see.”

Official texts

An ancient song binds its silvery strings to every living soul. Namine adds her voice to this unending melody. She plays the strings and subtly alters the song to her will. She changes the tempo from a calm wind to a crashing storm. She and the people of Soaksend know this song and live serenely within its melody. Woe unto those that cannot hear its beauty.

-The Song of Soaksend packaging

There are connections that bind all things in the world of Argaia. Namine has spent several lifetimes examining and identifying these connections, but now she is forced to use them against the very Phoenixborn she once fought alongside.

Revision #7
Created 2023-01-11 05:02:07 UTC by Oxirador
Updated 2025-04-30 21:25:53 UTC by DubiousArchivist